If you are interested in cycling in Fife, then you'll find no better place which provides clear and unique signs as well as information points along the routes, as well as multi-media kiosks and full colour maps.

For those who are visiting the area, you'll find the Kingdom of Fife a truly enchanting place to explore. It is relaxing and unspoiled, and of course in my opinion we have the mildest and sunniest climate in the land. Check out the weather . There are all year round attractions for the whole family and wonderful treasures such as Falkland Palace , fishing villages such Anstruther where you can stop of for the famous Fish and Chips, or the working village of Pittenweem (which has an equally good Chip Shop. You might want to explore the ancient capital of Dunfermline or look at the amazing modern sculptures in the new town of Glenrothes, and of course you can't come to the Kingdom whether by car or cycling in Fife, without a visit to the wonderful town of St Andrews, internationally accepted as the Home of Golf.

The link below takes you to a home page for Scotland specific routes which includes Fife in the index although many others could be accessed from us by taking a short train or car trip to join them.

Part way down the Fife listing I noted 4 routes that depart from Kirkcaldy which is only 1 mile from us and I include those specific route links below as well.
