Not so long ago, there was a young couple who wanted to have a child. They were very sad because of this.

Not far from where they lived, there was an orphan boy who was four years old. His name was Peter. He wanted to be part of a family because he felt unwanted in the orphanage.

One day, the couple went to the Orphanage and saw this handsome boy. They liked him but they had to pay for him and they didn't have any money.

So they made a wish and on Christmas Day, Santa gave them money through the lottery, and they went to get Peter and they had the Merriest Christmas in their lives.

NEW HORIZONS

SANTA REINDEER

Gerard Mas
1st ESO

This story started two days before Christmas. Santa, who was very old and fat, became ill of arthritis. He could not move at all. He was worried what would happen. Who will give out the presents?

The citizens of the city became very nervous. They thought of their children. What would happen to the little ones without any presents?

The reindeers, who were Santa's pets, decided to help him and organized how to bring the gifts to the children. They put Rudolph in charge. They put on Santa's clothes on him and he became Santa Reindeer.

Everybody was happy to see Santa Reindeer and his reindeer brothers giving out gifts. It was the best Christmas in that town.

CHRISTMAS DREAM

Sergi Rovira
1st ESO

One Christmas night, while Sergi, the little boy was sleeping, he heard a train and went down to the railway and saw something happening.

“Do you want to go up the train?” a boy asked him.

“Yes, I do,” said Sergi, and up he went.

The train went to Santa Claus’ house. Sergi was excited. But when he got there, he was surprised to see Santa Claus was very ill.

“Sergi,” Santa said, “ can you help me give out the presents to the children? I am very old and very ill.”

“Yes, Santa, of course!” Sergi answered and the other boy, Albert said he would help too.

They were so happy going to different houses, giving out presents. Finally, they came to his own house.

Then his parents woke him up, “Happy Christmas, Sergi!”

It was all a beautiful dream.

SANTA vs. THE BUSINESSMEN

Sergi Segovia
1st ESO

Santa Claus had a problem. He had been eating Doritos and drinking Meth Dew all year and he had become so fat and so slow in his movements. He used to play basketball and with that, he would shoot the presents down the chimneys but now, he could not do it anymore.

He had another problem. The businessmen in the city didn’t like him giving out presents. They wanted people to buy things so they can have more money.

Santa decided to stay fit. He ran and exercised and played basketball again.

On Christmas Eve, he ran to the city. It was late. He had the elves with him and they were ready to shoot the presents down the chimney.

But the businessmen were there too. They had guns. They wanted to stop him and the elves. They wore the Illuminati costume.

An epic battle began between Santa, his elves versus the Illuminati. It was the battle of who can eat more Doritos and drink more Meth Dew. Finally, Santa won! And the Illuminatis lay dead on the ground, poisoned by all the Doritos they ate.

The presents were given and Santa went back home to have some snacks of Meth Dew and a plate of Doritos.

SANTA GOT INJURED

It was the year 2014, Christmas Eve. Santa Claus was giving out presents, as usual, when a naughty boy heard him and shouted, "Boo! Santa!"

Santa was getting old and nervous. He fell from the chimney and broke his leg. He couldn't move at all.

The naughty boy felt very sorry. Santa gave him a card before his reindeers took him to the hospital.

The boy opened the card. It said: Can you be Santa's helper this Christmas? Please give out the presents. Love, Santa."

The little boy went out and gave out the presents. He felt very happy to help his old friend.

ONE BOY'S WISH

Albert Guiteras
1st ESO

One Christmas Eve, Santa had finished all his shopping and was ready to give out the presents.

Along with his 20 elves, he went to the city and the children lined up to get their gifts. They asked for phones, toys, video games, clothes and shoes.

At the end of the line was a thin boy. He was crying.

"What would you like me to give you, little boy?" Santa asked.

"Just make my Papa okay again. He is so ill. He is in hospital and Mama is very sad. I don't want anything else."

Santa was touched by the boy's wish. He went with him to the hospital and lay his hand on the ill man and he became well again.

REINDEER SUBSTITUTE

Albert Guzman
2nd ESO

Santa Claus had a plan. He wanted to teach his son, Niko to be kind. Niko never helped at home. He was addicted to video games. But from his mansion where they lived, he ran and ran because he was a good runner. Then he went home to play more video games.

Santa had a factory of toys. He had 20 reindeers. The night before Christmas all the 20 reindeers became ill. They had a bad flu and they couldn't get up. Niko had to substitute for them because he can run very fast.

He went with his father, as Santa's reindeer. He was angry because he wanted to stay at home and play video games. But when he saw the happy faces of the children, Niko realized that helping others was more important than all the games in the world.

A long time ago, Santa helped an orphan boy go to school. He was a lonely boy but Santa made him happy again.

That was a long time ago. Now Santa was old and ill. He could not give out presents anymore. His elves helped him do everything he did when he was younger.

Santa had 12 elves. They were small, with long ears, and wore green colored coats all day. This Christmas, the elves had to go and give out the presents.

Some elves stayed with Santa. He became very ill. The little elves had to carry him even though he was big and fat and they were very small. They carried him to the hospital.

A doctor received them. It was the little orphan boy Santa helped a long, long time ago.

"Don't worry, Santa, I will make you well again," said the doctor.

Santa cried. The doctor kissed him and helped him to get better. They spent Christmas Eve together, Santa and his little orphan boy, who was now his doctor.

SUPERMAN, SANTA'S FRIEND

Bernat Rossello
1st ESO

There was a Santa Claus who lived in Miami too. Instead of reindeers, he had motorbikes. He had a friend who helped him, and that friend was Superman.

Superman was very young and strong, and he was fast. When he was not Superman, he was a journalist and he spent time riding motorbikes with Santa at the weekends.

That Christmas, Santa fell from his motorbike and could not give out the presents. The toys were ready but there was no one to deliver them.

He called his friend Superman who said yes, he would put all the toys in sacks and give them out riding his motorbike.

Christmas was saved and their Santa that year was a young man on a motorbike.

A POOR FAMILY'S CHRISTMAS

Marta Poch
2nd ESO

Many years ago, a poor family lived in Florida in a small hut. They were the McLeekings and they were very poor. Mrs Julia McLeeking found out that she was pregnant. They were worried because they could not pay for the hospital. Besides, they don't know any person who they can trust and who can help them.

On Christmas Eve, Santa came to their hut and he gave them presents. But Julia was not happy. She was still worried about the hospital bills and the milk for her baby.

Santa understood. He gave them 300 euros and put Julia on his sleigh and they went to the hospital. This made Mr. McLeeking nervous because this was a very strange thing.

Santa parked his sleigh on the upper floor of the hospital and took Julia to the Maternity Section. She had a baby girl who she called Marie.

When they were about to pay the hospital, they were told that somebody already paid for it. It was Santa. They were not able to say good bye to him but they thanked him in their hearts.

They went home to find more presents for the new baby. It was a beautiful Christmas for this poor family.

Orior Herrero

In a city near Barcelona, there was a haunted house and there lived an evil dream crusher. His name was Pep and he was 49 years old. He was very tall and very fat and he always wore a long, black tunic and a red hat because he was bald.

Pep was the Dream Crusher. He made people feel bad about themselves. He made them miserable.

This year, Santa fell ill. He thought of asking one person to replace him. But all the men were busy and the only one who was not was Pep.

He thought and thought, and finally decided to talk with Pep.

"Can you be Santa Claus just for one night?" he asked Pep.

Pep was angry but he agreed. "I don't like making people happy, but okay, I will do it for you."

When Pep started distributing presents, he felt happier and happier. And when he was done, he was a new man. He went home and reformed his house so he can invite people to visit him. His first guests were Santa and his elves. They came to his house, ate and played games. They were very happy.

That Christmas Day Pep was happy and decided never to crush anybody's dreams again.

Sara Hernando

Once upon a time, there was a poor family. The father was ill and so the mother had to work very hard. They had four children. The children never had any new clothes but still, they were sweet little ones.

Near the house, under the tree, lived a fair Leprechaun with green eyes, long nose and small ears. He had very small hands but very big feet.

They saw the children were good and asked them what they would like for Christmas.

The children did not ask for clothes or food or toys. They only asked for their father to be cured.

The Leprechauns cured their father and gave them clothes, food and toys, too. And they became a very happy family again.

SANTA RETIRES

Marc Calvo
3rd ESO

One day in December a very old man with a red nose and a long, white beard wanted to live in New York City. But if he did that, he had to leave his work in the North Pole. But he left just the same.

When he left his work, all the little children started to cry and got angry with Santa Claus for leaving them. They all went to New York to protest.

When they arrived, Richard, a very good man, came to meet them.

“Santa is getting old. He is very tired. You have to understand. The reason for Christmas is to be with our families and to be the best person you can be all year round, even without presents.”

“ We are angry, “ the children said, “because we are young and we want our presents. And if Santa retires, no child will ever get a present again,” they cried.

Richard understood. And then and there, he made up his mind to leave his job in New York, go to the North Pole and be the new Santa Claus.

CHRISTMAS ELVES

Claudia Carrasco
4th ESO

Once upon a time, there were three elves who went to the North Pole. They were two boys – Paul and Bart. They were strong and very intelligent. There was another girl called Moon who was small with blonde and blue eyes.

These three elves did not have a house so they went into the basement of a house that was Santa's factory of toys.

They saw that Santa gave presents every Christmas but never received any. They thought of preparing him a present. They made a new coat and trousers and a warm hat for Santa to wear.

On Christmas Eve, the Elves told Santa, "this is for you, Santa, because you are very good to us and to everybody else."

Santa was surprised. He cried. Finally, it was his turn to receive something.

CHRISTMAS NIGHTMARE

Marc Diaz
3rd ESO

One night, on the 24th of December, while I was sleeping, I heard a strange noise in the kitchen. I went to have a look, and when I opened the door, I found the cat hiding in the cupboard. I got a glass of water and went back to sleep again.

Forty minutes later, I got up because I was very excited since the next day was Christmas. While I was walking through the hall, the door closed. I turned around and saw a ghost behind me!

I screamed and went to my parents' bedroom. But my parents were dead!

I ran out to the garden and saw that my neighbors were the murderers. They had killed my parents. Then they surrounded me and the same ghost I had seen, stood beside me, protecting me. When they were about to stab a knife into me, I woke up.

It was a bad dream. I went out of bed and ran to the living room. My parents were there, sitting on the sofa, waiting for me to open the presents.

It was a really, really strange and bad nightmare.

THE LITTLE BOY

Aina Fernandez
3rd ESO

It was the 23rd of December and Santa Claus was preparing all the presents for the children of the whole world. He was writing the list of the children who misbehaved when an elf said, “Santa, a boy is waiting for you.”

He left the room and went to the door. There was a little boy wearing a strange hat. There were no parents with him so Santa invited him in.

He thought it was an elf dressed up as child to go the human world, but he wasn't.

“My name is Richard,” the boy told him. “I am lost.”

“Well, don't worry, “ Santa said. “I'll prepare you a bed and you can sleep here for the night.”

The next morning, Santa saw that Richard was in the black list so he told him, “ you are in the black list Richard, what are you going to do about it?”

“I will change my behavior,” Richard decided.

They went to the Gifts Factory to see the elves working. Richard was so surprised because he didn't like Christmas.

“What for? Santa never gives me any presents,” he said.

“Because you're in the black list, Richard,” Santa said. “If you behave, you'll get your presents.”

Richard decided that he would be a better person. Finally on the 25th of December, Santa went to the human world and he left Richard in his house. He was a changed boy.

And Santa went from house to house to turn children's dreams into reality.

CHRISTMAS EVE PRESENT

Julia Braun
4th ESO

It was a dark and cold night of December. Lidia was going to her house, after a long day in the office. She was walking on the street when a black cat crossed. She didn't see it because she was thinking of all the things she had to do when she got home.

When she arrived home, her house was deserted as always. After she had made dinner, she heard a sound coming from the attic. When she went to look, she saw nobody was there.

Then she saw the black cat who told her, "Lidia, you will see your family soon."

Lidia was confused how the cat could talk and because her family had disappeared many years before. At first, she thought it was all a dream. If her family hadn't appeared before, they couldn't appear now.

But on Christmas Eve, someone knocked at the door and it was her family! Her family had finally returned home.
