Portraiture

In the history of painting, the Portrait was the ultimate test of true artistic and technical accuracy by the rendition of an accepted likeness of the subject.

Everyone has a dominate and natural look by which we picture them. I think we need to take that look and express it in the most absorbing and beautiful way. I have very little interest in rendering people as unreal replicas there to be gawped at. I dislike the self-indulgent. I want my subjects to be painted to impress and be admired.

A portrait of a man with short, wavy, light-colored hair. He is wearing a dark suit jacket, a white shirt, and a blue tie. He has a serious expression and is looking slightly to the right of the camera.

Portraiture

Portraiture is a journey of true discovery. It is a search that results in a stunning truth about the character, image and personality of a subject. Most sitters have no idea of their best features or how to represent themselves in the favoured light. The Artist has a responsibility to find that star magic that will transform the ordinary into one that excites and fascinates.

Mireya Profile

DON'T LOOK KNOW

This picture was inspired by the 1950's Film Noir cinema period. It's a Giclée Limited print, detail from a larger painting. The composition of this is the intriguing mystery surrounding a drama.

DREAM BABY

A strange and surreal picture whereby dreams of heroes, heroines and villains are all imagined from the novels so avidly consumed. DREAM BABY is an unusual picture in which villains materialise in a surreal composition as the young bookworm sinks ever deeper into the plot.

THE PRINTS AND THE SHOWGIRL

With a copy of the famous poster on the wall, the prints are scattered on the coffee table as the showgirl appears indifferent to the angst of the two male characters.

Classic

The Posy Ring

An intimate moment, typical of the 18th century, when a Posy Ring is presented. Look closely to read the secret message, known only to the giver and receiver, engraved on the inside of the ring. The act of wearing the ring often conferred acceptance of the sentiments expressed. This is Romanticism typical of that century. It's a very beautiful moment captured by the sentimental brush of a Master of Romanticism.

The Lost Venetian Mirror

The Venetian Carnival is a grotesque dark parade of hideous masks hiding identities, the revealing dresses and a pervading air of menace. I like the painting of the lady's silk dress and the magical vulnerability of the times.

Leighton Charles

Venetian Mayhem

There are stories of shrieking skulls, of statues coming alive, of strange creatures of the deep. The Venetians have always loved the bizarre and fantastic. Living on the water opens minds to the supernatural and to a strange kind of unconscious association. From this very watery and uterine landscape, strange shapes emerge representing the dreams or nightmares of humankind. Hence in Venice we find the intense fear of magic.

VENICE PURE CITY

Tiepolo, Madness

A tribute to the hedonistic paintings of Tiepolo where the Venetian Carnival with its array of colourful masques, gaiety, music and dancing is illuminating the picture.

Jane Morris and her ScreenSaver

A much talked about Love Affair, in the torturous world of Art History, would be that between PreRaphaelite Dante Gabriel Rossetti and his most famous model, Jane Morris. This fascinating new tribute painting by Leighton Charles, has Jane as Pandora clutching an iPad with Rossetti's image as a ScreenSaver. This thrilling masterpiece of true Romantic Surrealism brings a modern twist to a historic truth that has fascinated many art lovers throughout the last century.

A Dramatic Love Story with a modern twist

Jane, your image remains true forever,
Immortalised by the brush of your man,
For the love of whom liming was never,
A dominion like the art from his hand.

We can study you closely for traces,
Of a troubled heart, languid in silence,
Through a cortege of beautiful faces,
By an artist to whom you gave license.

The Ghost of Elizabeth Siddal

No Artist since Dante Gabriel Rossetti, has dared to paint Elizabeth Siddal or Jane Morris

Leighton Charles creates the Ghost of Elizabeth returning to the studio to haunt Rossetti and his model in a surreal cameo of intrigue and drama.....and the beatified Beatrice clutches her bottle of Laudanum.

Elizabeth Siddal (1829-62), Poet, Artist and the Supermodel, rose from obscurity of a Southwark slum to become one of the most famous faces in Victorian Britain. She is Millais's doomed Ophelia and Rossetti's beatified Beatrice. Her image haunts viewers and has become the globally recognised incarnation of Pre-Raphaelitism.

Shooting ArtDeco

Leighton Charles tribute to Tamara De Lempicka, the artist most associated with the Art Deco period of the 1930's.

Character's pronounced features with cylindrical bodies move menacingly within futuristic concepts of the time.

The open book, skeletal hand, folded pages and pistol are props used by Tamara in the 1930's.

Mystery

This picture was inspired by George Spencer Watson's 'A Nude' from the 1930's. It's the subject of an ArtWorld YouTube movie 'Behind the Painted Picture' which tells the full story of a wonderful composition and the intrigue behind this 1930's painting. I am a huge fan of George Spencer Watson and I have painted this scene by way of a tribute.
