Dunmore House

1st Visit

We all love the urban investigations. Good team building exercise. This time around we were at Dunmore House in Airth.

On with the report from the evening ...

The weather was kind to us thankfully, the only problem was those pesky midgies.

I think a few of us came home with some bites that night.

Present on the investigation were Maryann (team sensitive), Helping out with tech we had Jac & Julie 😊 and myself also doubling as team leader. Research and tech we had Zoey & Elaine. Michelle was championing the EVP experiments. We also happened to bump into another group of Ghost Hunters that night too so we teamed up as working separately would only introduce potential contamination into the experiments/readings etc.

I only caught a few names so I apologise for missing anyone from the report. Present from the other team were Khally, Dannielle and her dad and Curtis.

We walked around the entire area and it was mainly quiet unfortunately, that was until we moved into the lower ground level.

Maryann had picked up on the residual energy of monks but the main spirit energy that stood out was one that had an unfortunate stay in the cellar. She also felt that the energy between two particular areas of the cellar were different.

We ran the EMF meters around and got nothing but when we used the ELF detector (extreme low frequency not something from Lord Of The Rings lol) it detected a distinct change where Maryann had identified it before.

Michelle attempted some EVP experiments in this area and they seemed to be a bit clearer, the main one being a response that said "happy" when we asked what their emotional state was.

At the end of the night we encountered a spirit which initially we believed thought that we were partaking in the devils work.

Not too clear on that as this assumption was made from the EVP recordings so again we will have to clear it up to see if we can get anything that may be worth sharing or not. Perhaps we initially got it wrong and the spirit was partaking in the devil's work. We are not sure but at this point time had beaten us again so we said our goodbyes to our fellow ghost hunters and made our way back to the cars.
