I'd like to thank the manager of the nightclub for allowing us exclusive access to this venue. The location itself dates back to the late 1700's so we were quite excited to get our teeth into this one.

Initially the baseline tests did not provide much that we could not explain as natural phenomena; that was until Zoey noticed a bright blue light appear between the two staircases in the club's dance floor area.

There was also a couple of rogue readings on the EMF meters in which Maryann stated that she could see a teenage girl that she would date from around the 17th/18th century based on her clothing. She was wearing a smoky hessian style dress which was tucked in at the waist.

Maryann felt that her name sounded like Hetty or Hatty, but she was unsure at that point.

She got the impression that she would have collected people's urine from their house to use for something but she wasn't sure for what purpose.

Maryann felt that she made a reference to the commissioners house just before she lost contact with her. Michaels EMF meter appeared to lose power at that point. He returned to the hub and replaced the batteries.

Lorraine also collected the dowsing rods from the horseshoe bar for Maryann.

As she walked back to the cocktail bar she seen someone walk past the archway in the main dance floor. She walked into the room to see who it was and no one was physically there.

The group decided to investigate the sighting further. Maryann got the impression that the room used to be a holding area.

She also got the impression that the spirit of an undertaker was present but could not see him at present.

We were only a stone-throw away from the location that we investigated a year previous to this one in which we encountered the spirit of the undertaker, but we were unsure at this point if it was the same spirit (see Case File 1004).

Maryann used the dowsing rods and they appeared to level out at the point where Lorraine had seen the figure.

She then began to describe that she felt that a tunnel ran from this location to a nearby church that we had also investigated previously over a decade ago.

She also felt that there was a large building with a square in front of it that would have held witch trials nearby but was unsure of its connection at present.

As Maryann identified where the tunnel ran from Michael placed EMF metres on the floor which began to register readings all in sync with one another.

We later discovered that there was indeed a passageway below and that it was the lights on a basement ceiling below which triggered the meters.

Chris noted a spike on the EMF meter where Zoey had witnessed the blue light appear momentarily during the initial baseline tests.

As we were stood back at the stage, Maryann stated that she could see a lot of movement in front of Michael.

She could see three men by the wall in-between the two staircases that led onto the dance floor.

They appeared to be watching us, indicating that they were spirits and not residual ghosts.

Maryann went on to describe what she could see and hear.

The man that was stood in the middle between the other two spirits had his arms crossed.

She stated that she could hear one of them say "what a lot of old fish wives".

The man on the left was wearing a  $\frac{3}{4}$  length jacket and looked like an undertaker and she followed up with the name Willie McNabb but was unsure which one in particular that name referred to; she also picked up on the residual impression of horses here.

Zoey, Christopher, Michael Lou and myself all heard whistling from a different room and went to investigate.

We tracked down the manager who was the only other person present in the club at the time and he was in a completely different area of the club. We could not establish the origin of the whistling noise that we heard.

Whilst we were gone, Maryann stated that the young waif and strays would congregate here and some would also have died here due to the cold conditions and lack of appropriate clothing.

Residually, she could also see a young bottle boy that had crutches with the bottom of his leg missing.

Upon re-joining the group, I decided that we should setup some lock off cameras to record footage from the dance floor, given that Maryann, Lorraine and Zoey had witnessed so much activity here, so I called a break to let some of the team get some “fresh air” and then setup the equipment.

Lorraine had the feeling that she was being followed by someone but just couldn't see who. She was quite startled after having seen the figure earlier. Perhaps it was the same person.

Peter and Maryann returned from their break and as Lorraine looked at Peter she witnessed a small, very bright white light drop from the ceiling behind him. Maryann reacted at the same time as she also witnessed this phenomenon but we could not establish what caused this incident to occur.

We moved back to the dance floor and locked off the IR and UV cameras together with a laser grid in an attempt to record movement where Maryann had seen the three spirits before.

We also locked off an EVP recorder but didn't capture much on it.

There was a particular voice recording captured that sent chills down our spines. Maryann had sensed that there was some secret club meeting held here and was trying to establish what it was when the voice recording came back with a response "I'll get ye".

Quite disturbing to say the least. We shall continue to analyse the recordings that we have captured in the hope that we may get more information from any of the spirits that may haunt the club.

While we conducted the EVP experiments, the manager of the club, Lorraine and Maryann could hear voices in another room but we were all in the cocktail bar area at the time.

As we continued with the EVP experiment, the whole group could hear footsteps moving around where we heard the voices so we rushed next door to try and catch what it was, convinced that someone else was in the club with us.

Again we turned up nothing. No one was there but we all heard it as loudly as if there was someone physically there.

Nothing unusual was recorded on the lock off cameras unfortunately.

Whilst we locked off the dance floor, Ian and I were stood talking, I got the impression of an older male spirit approaching us. He seemed to be curious about what Ian was doing. He had similar features to Ian and I got the impression that he was looking for him.

I also picked up on some information regarding someone being found next to the barrels below here, but wasn't sure what that meant at the time. We spoke to the manager and he unlocked the door and allowed us to access the area below where we were stood.

To my surprise there were barrels piled there but I wasn't getting much more after that unfortunately.

It was a great night had by all.
