Have you been thinking of any of these options for your future?

Elderly Apartment Complex

Property value can drop the minute you move in, like buying a new car.

High community charges, which still have to be paid after you move out, leaving family with the financial burden until a sale is made.

Plethora of similar flats on the market, making resale much more difficult, with a fee often also due to the property developers.

Homecare in your Home

The news is constantly filled with stories of lack of staff to fill the clients needs, often resulting in many different carers coming into your home, and often well outside the times you requested.

Increasingly we also hear of varying degrees of skills with employees, sometimes resulting in reduced levels of care, reliability, trust & quality.

Residential Care Home

In some cases the choice of where you live is taken out of your hands, ending in a placement in a home you've never seen, clients with much more severe health issues, and where you're paying high care fees for less support to yourself.

Limited Personal Space, Individuality and Control for yourself can be a potential problem which is difficult to cope with for some.

Indoors or Outdoors, Communal spaces abound around the property, and the size of your private suite will amaze you.
